Nile cruise boats and felucca sailing cruises are the two main Nile choices for vacationers visiting Egypt. In the latter case, your accommodations will probably be more basic, but you'll get to experience Egypt's true face far from the opulent hotels.

Also there are many things that you must not do during your Egypt trip that we have mentioned here for your help. Let's take a look-

- Don't be frightened by vendors

At every tourist place, you will find business people everywhere, where they will shout their offers from behind the open door in the bazaar while you are walking, passing by the shop. They might also run behind you with their goods while you are enjoying your vacation. With Best Egypt Travel Packages you will get to the best location where you might not face any such issue but we can't say because the vendors are available in every tourist spot so you need to be aware on your own.

- Do not ride the camels or horses

You must not let yourself be involved in riding the animal which you can see is already tired from the heat or maybe malnourished as they might be abused by the human standing next to him. Instead of this, you can visit other places in Egypt where you can find animals that are well cared for and are kept in a good atmosphere with all respect.

- You must dress properly

When planning a Vacation Tours for Families you must do a little research on how to dress in Egypt based on its weather, location and style. The basic rule of clothing here is that you must keep your arms and knees covered for both men and women. For some religious places, there is a specific dress code that you have to follow if you are going there.

Also, these places have rules that you need to follow regarding the clothes as well as entry. The mosques should not be visited by any non-Muslims during the prayer hours. And visits to churches must also respect the time of ceremonies and more.

- You must not drink alcohol on the street

Many tourist places serve alcohol in the bars and you shouldn't consume alcohol in the streets.
