

Our Cashmere Products

Our cashmere products come from the stunning Himalayan region of Nepal. There, in the majestic mountains, you will find the home of the cashmere goats that provide one of the most precious and softest fibers in the world - cashmere wool.

The Himalayan Region of Nepal

1 Majestic Mountains

The Himalayan mountains in Nepal boast some of the highest peaks in the world, creating a breathtaking landscape.

2 Diverse Ecosystems

From lush valleys to alpine meadows, the Himalayan region is home to a wide variety of plant and animal life.

3 Rich Cultural Heritage

The people of Nepal have a long history of living in harmony with the Himalayas, developing unique traditions and practices.

The Cashmere Goats

Hardy Creatures

Cashmere goats are well-adapted to the harsh Himalayan climate, with a thick, soft undercoat that protects them from the elements.

Gentle Temperament

These goats are known for their calm and gentle nature, making them easy to care for by the local herders.

Precious Fiber

The fine, downy cashmere fiber from these goats is prized for its exceptional softness and warmth.

The Precious Cashmere Fiber

Exceptional Quality

Cashmere is renowned for its unparalleled softness, lightness, and durability, making it a highly coveted textile fiber.

Sustainable Harvest

The cashmere fiber is carefully harvested from the goats, ensuring a responsible and eco-friendly production process.

Meticulous Processing

The raw cashmere fiber undergoes a multi-step cleaning and sorting process to remove impurities and ensure consistent quality.

Luxury Textile

The final cashmere product is a luxurious, high-end textile that is highly sought after for its unparalleled softness and warmth.
