

Strip Brushes

Strip brushes are versatile tools consisting of a strip of bristles inside a channel made from metal or plastic and are used for many tasks. They are often used to fill gaps, block or regulate air, minimize dust and pests and soundproof or reduce vibration in industrial and commercial places. You can find strip brushes in different sizes and made from nylon, polypropylene.

People can often spot them attached to conveyor belts, doors, escalators and different kinds of machinery. They are quick to set up and keep up, so strip brushes are used for various sealing and cleaning tasks on a regular basis in manufacturing, transportation and maintenance businesses.
